PRESS RELEASE

County's big day out promises more than ever

More, more, more.... That's the message from the organisers of this year's Lincolnshire Show, the County's big day out. The 127th Show takes place at the Lincolnshire Showground, Grange de Lings on Wednesday 22nd and Thursday 23rd June 2011.

The two-day event is overflowing with attractions for the whole family and organisers are promising more family entertainment, more delicious foods from local producers, more schools taking part in the big Challenge and more sports to try out. There are also more new attractions - like Express Eventing and the Scruffts crossbreed pooch competition.

AGRICULTURE, FOOD AND PRODUCE

For those looking to get an agricultural hit, this 127th Lincolnshire Show will be keeping agriculture at its heart. The Show includes the best of the county's livestock on the judging lines and all the latest trends in farming and agriculture from the top breeds to top machines, as well as the best produce from the county.

Alongside all the new attractions will be the features that lie at the heart of the Show's traditional agricultural heritage, with events such as pig racing, showjumping, the spectacular Grand Parade of the best of the county's livestock sponsored by Saul Fairholm in the Clydesdale Bank Main Ring and the vintage to modern day agricultural machinery display sponsored by Spaldings and Woldmarsh.

And from one of the county's farms, an outstanding family tradition will be recognised when four brothers from Wrisdale's farm in Wainfleet St Mary's receive Long Service Awards, sponsored by Harold Woolgar Insurance for their contribution to the farming industry. For Norman, Percy, Gordon and Colin Gostelow have served a total of 174 years between them. Oldest brother Norman first started work in 1961, following in the footsteps of his father and grandfather at the farm.

The Select Lincolnshire and Tastes of Lincolnshire Food Court will feature a special Lincolnshire producer and supplier section this year, with a mouth-watering selection of local produce and some great homemade recipe demonstrations throughout each day from local food champion Rachel Green.

The Select Lincolnshire programme aims to raise awareness of the county's food brands directly to the consumer. Its sister organisation Tastes of Lincolnshire encourages tourism destinations like bed and breakfasts and farm shops to put Lincolnshire produce on the menu.

"The Show is the home of Lincolnshire produce, which is arguably the best in Britain, and we need to be shouting about it," said Helen Scott of Select Lincolnshire and Tastes of Lincolnshire. "The biggest draw is always the demonstration marquee and we're very pleased to have local celebrity chef Rachel Green leading the line up once more."

One of the exhibitors in the Food Court's special Lincolnshire produce area will be national award-winning farmers and producers of free range pork, Redhill Farm, winners of the Countryside Alliance Local Food Award for East of England 2010 and Tastes of Lincolnshire BIG Sausage Festival 2010 for Lincolnshire's Favourite Sausage. The Farm will be hoping for a repeat of their victory at last year's Show, when they won the Oscar Brown Perpetual Challenge Cup awarded at last year's Show for the best food stand.

LIVESTOCK

In the livestock lines, two native breeds that are likely to attract much attention once again are the Lincoln Longwool sheep and Lincoln Red cattle.

From near Woodhall Spa in eastern Lincolnshire, Maurice Parker will bring his 6 Lincoln Longwools when he attends the Lincolnshire Show for the 41st time. He said: "It's one of the best shows in the country. It's our home county show and the stewarding at Lincolnshire is always brilliant." Maurice has been winning championships firstly for others and for himself since 2000, including wool on hoof, interbreed and overall breed Champion.

In the cattle lines, Geoff Bolton from Market Rasen has notched up 52 Lincolnshire Shows, since his first visit as a schoolboy in 1959. Now chairman of Lincoln Red Cattle Society for the second time, and a judge himself at other agricultural shows, he has been breeding Lincoln Reds for over 20 years and now has a herd of 30 beasts.

He said: "Lincolnshire Show is largely still agricultural and it's got an important role to play in education. I first came to the Show on a School trip in 1959, and now, just as then, it's an opportunity for young people to learn and to be involved in agriculture, livestock and where food comes from."

FAMILY ENTERTAINMENT

One of the star attractions, the Knights of the Damned, return with a new show. Britain's premier medieval jousting stunt team are promising more excitement and a new format for this year, according to leader Justin Pearson, who is fresh back from performing the stunts on Pirates of the Caribbean IV. The troupe also includes two local riders, Rob and James Pavey, both 21 and just qualifying as stuntmen. The Knights of the Damned will be performing both days of the Show in the Isuzu Countryside Arena.

Throughout the Show, the Lincs FM stage will host the best acts who make it through the qualifiers of the radio station's You've Got Talent competition. Also appearing will be two successful acts from previous years - The Substitutes and Route East. Said Katie Trinder of Lincs FM: "We have something for everyone on the stage during the two days - from rap music to heavy rock, pop to classical." The Lincs FM presenters will also be trying their skills as a dance troupe, with some help from local dance school Streetbeat.

Visitors are well used to parades - there are grand parades of livestock, of agricultural machinery or of Young Farmers' floats - but this year there will be a rather unusual addition, with a parade that explores the idea of what is normal, and whether anyone is truly normal. Developed by Lincoln Art Programme, in conjunction with artist Anthony Schrag, local groups in Lincoln have donated objects or people that are representative of their 'normal activities'. They include a cake from the WI, a pair of binoculars from a bird watching group, and they will be marched around by Yellowbellies in a Parade of Normal Things. The aim is to show that what is normal to some, might be considered eccentric by someone else. The parade will meander slowly around the Show offering a chance to explore the objects and how they relate to one another and to Lincolnshire.

Something for everyone is also on offer at the BBC Lincolnshire stand where the costumes and trophy from BBC's chart-topping Strictly Come Dancing series rubbing shoulders with a fashion show of designs from Lincoln University students. Also on the stand are two contrasting musical attractions - there's Abba Salute, the tribute band, and a community musical commissioned by the BBC, telling the story of Priscilla Biggadike, the Lincolnshire woman wrongly hanged for the murder of her husband.

And for the shopper, there will be more than 600 stands to visit, including the boutique style shopping on The Mews avenue featuring everything from bespoke kitchens to handmade pearl bracelets.

THE SPORTS ZONE

This year's Sports Zone is doubled in size and in the run up to the 2012 Olympics, it will feature almost all the Olympic sports. Features include the ECB cricket factory with Lincolnshire County Cricket Board – an 11 x 9m self contained cricket batting and fielding area. Boston United will bring their inflatable penalty shoot out and wheelchair basketball in an inflatable sports barn, 20 x 11 ft. For water based sports, Lincoln Canoe Club will have virtual racing machines linked to a computer screen for visitors to test their technique and the Lincoln District Sailing Association will have a sailboat on show. Other sports include table tennis, volleyball, badminton, golf, hockey and a specially adapted set up for street athletics.

Joining the Show will be Olympic and Paralympic hopeful Richard Sargent, representing wheelchair basketball. Elsewhere Leicester Tiger coaches will be on hand to give youngsters the chance to test their rugby skills.

Said Marc Rhodes, events officer with Lincolnshire Sports Partnership: "We've got a fantastic range of sports on offer for visitors to try out, including nearly all the Olympic sports. My favourite thing about coming to the Lincolnshire Show is the sheer numbers we get taking part. Last year we had 3,400 young people taking part and around 1,000 adults. We're hoping to beat that this year, with even more on offer."

SCHOOLS CHALLENGE

In the Exhibition Hall, more local schools than ever will be taking part in this year's Schools' Challenge, sponsored by Farmacy Plc and E Park and Sons, it aims to encourage young people to understand more about food, farming and agriculture. Phil Everett, marketing and communications coordinator with the Education Business Partnership explained: "Every previous year we have been over-subscribed so we've decided to move from the Discovery Zone into the Exhibition Hall, and that allows us to have 33 entrants this year. We've also got a new special schools category. It's all booked up and with a waiting list – the schools love it."

Primary, secondary and special schools are all taking part and one new challenge for this year is called One Brand, which encourages young people to make contact with a school in a different country, where they speak a different language and have a different climate.

Phil added: "Lincolnshire is a rural county and this Challenge gives children an excellent foundation in understanding where food comes from and how it can be sourced locally. They also go on farm visits as part of the Challenge which helps to show career options in the horticulture and agricultural industry."

DOGS AND SCRUFFTS

For the first time dogs will be allowed to join in the fun at the Show. They must be kept on a lead, but owners can also leave them with a special doggy-crèche being run during the Show by local animal charity, Jerry Green Dog Rescue.

Not only can people bring their dogs, there's also a chance to compete - with the Kennel Club Scruffts Competition, sponsored by James Wellbeloved, taking place at Thursday's Show. The four competitions taking place are The Most Handsome Crossbreed Dog, The Prettiest Crossbreed Bitch, Child's Best Friend and Golden Oldie Crossbreed. Entries for the heats will be taken on the day.

"This year is a real first for dog lovers and it's great to see how much support there has been," said marketing manager Sarah Poucher. "It's been on the agenda for some years and needed careful consideration because of issues of hygiene, the livestock on site, and the areas which are not open to dogs such as the food court.

"Obviously dogs have to be on leads and some areas are out of bounds, but other shows have been trialling it and we've been learning from their experience, and are looking forward to seeing some happy tail wagging this year!"

EQUESTRIAN

A major new attraction that will make it into the Clydesdale Bank Main Ring this year is the qualifying heat for Express Eventing, a mini version of eventing which promises a thrill a minute. The Express Eventing Series 2011 will see dressage, cross country and show jumping being completed in one arena. Eventing celebrity and 2008 winner Oliver Townend has already announced his intention to compete. "I am really looking forward to having the chance to compete. It is developing into a spectator and TV friendly version of our great sport." Local rider Matthew Wright is also taking part.

ENVIRONMENT

Visitors can ask find out to live greener lives when they speak to The Greenhouse, a group of local companies designed to showcase renewable technologies and explain how to live a more sustainable lifestyle. All of the companies are based in and around Lincolnshire and are all experts in their field. It's been organised by Jo Huggett of Binbrook-based 4Eco who supply solar thermal systems and air source and ground Source heat pumps, for both domestic and commercial properties. Jo Huggett, director of 4Eco explained: "We have put together companies who cover a range of different techniques, and importantly they are all accredited organisations." Technologies on display include solar power, biomass, wind turbines, ground source heat pumps and rain water harvesting.

SHOW IS BIG EARNER

The Show is a big earner for Lincolnshire and research carried out last year showed that a massive £44m is being injected into the national economy thanks to the events held at the Lincolnshire Events Centre at the county's Showground, attracting over 215,000 visitors a year.

More than 80 per cent of exhibitors return each year because of the amount of business they do at the Show and it is estimated that every £1 spent at the Show generates £20 in the local economy. The Show and other events at the Showground boost local hotels and B&Bs, creating demand for 18,400 overnight stays locally.

"The annual County Show is a major tourism attraction, alongside the city's Cathedral and Castle," said Mark Farmer, chief executive of Lincolnshire Agricultural Society: "It's also a big earner for the economy, although it's not just about the Show nowadays, as we have expanded the Showground site to become a major year-round regional conferencing and outdoor events centre."

On the Show itself, Mark Farmer added: "This is the county's big day out and we're really thrilled with this year's line up. There's something for everyone who has a love of the countryside."

"The Lincolnshire Show is an agricultural show, one of the few county shows to remain true to its agricultural heritage, a strength which has carried us forward. It's important to stimulate awareness of countryside matters, and the vital role that agriculture plays in the local economy."

FAQs about the Show and the Showground:

Lincolnshire Agricultural Society was formed in 1869 and is best known throughout the county as the organiser of the annual Lincolnshire Show, an event which draws visitors from all over the county and beyond.

Its objectives, as laid down by its Victorian founders, are “the furtherance, welfare and progress of the Agricultural Industry and all professions, trades and crafts connected therewith”.

Today those objectives are more important than ever to us and since 2005 we have had the additional focus of sustainability and protection of our natural environment for the benefit of future generations.

We work closely with individuals, schools, organisations and businesses whose common vision is to promote the agricultural industry and pursue activities that have a positive effect on our environment and community.

As a charity, sponsorship and support is vital to our success. We also generate income to support our activities through the Lincolnshire Events Centre, the trading arm of Lincolnshire Agricultural Society.

Lincolnshire Events Centre:

Lincolnshire Events Centre is a major national conferencing venue, home of the Lincolnshire Show and the groundbreaking EPIC project.

Just outside the historic city of Lincoln, the Centre hosts events for 10 to 10,000 visitors on its 200 acre showground site and 3000 square metres of indoor exhibition and venue space. Outdoor events include the flagship Lincolnshire Show, now in its 126th year, antiques fairs and horse trials, attracting 300,000 visitors each year.

Under cover, there are exhibition halls and conferencing facilities, including the recently completed EPIC centre, the second largest purpose-designed showcase for environmental technologies in the UK, it enables event organisers to reduce, monitor and offset their carbon footprint.

The Lincolnshire Show:

Just some of the statistics involved in managing the spectacular annual event that is the Lincolnshire County Show.

10,000 square metres of marquees, 20 miles of electrical cable, 800 tables, 3,000 chairs, 12,000 loo rolls, and 45,000 copies of a 66 page programme.

A complete town emerges on the 200 acre showground site at Grange de Lings. There are road names, car parks are marked out, and the marquees are all in place and 12000 cars have to be parked during for the Show.

More than 100 stewards are involved, one for every aspect of the show, each in their distinctive bowler hats.

There are 11 rings, 1800 horses and ponies entries, over 1300 cattle, pigs, sheep and goats in the livestock entries, and there are over 600 trade stands selling everything from frying pans to fashion
